++ Thousands of Canadians Expected to March in Solidarity with the Women's March on Washington, January 21st 2017 ++

For Immediate Release:

In the spirit of equality, diversity, and inclusivity, Canadians across the country will rally with their sisters, brothers and non-binary family in the United States on Saturday, January 21, 2017, in support of the Women's March on Washington.

Hundreds of women are travelling to Washington, DC to be part of this historic march. Simultaneously, 65 sister marches are being held in over 32 countries worldwide - and counting. The Canadian Women's March on Washington is a rallying cry from coast to coast, in over ten cities nationally. People will peacefully march and rally in solidarity with millions around the world, one day after the Presidential inauguration. Canadians will gather to say loud and clear that discrimination will not be tolerated, and stand in support of all those who have been the targets of hatred within Canada and abroad: indigenous peoples, people of colour, Muslims, immigrants, LGBTQI+, people with disabilities, women and others. This grassroots coalition - including many first time organizers - will be one of the largest international demonstrations ever assembled.

The outpouring of support from across Canada reflects its wide diversity, bringing together business owners, religious communities, labour groups, politicians, artists, students, girls, boys, women, men, and non-binary individuals -- just to name a few -- everyone who believes that women's rights are human rights will be marching on January 21st 2017.

This event has been featured in all major national and international publications. The publication list for the Canadian march can be found here.
